To whom it may concern:

I have often used the legal services of Russell Bryant over the past twenty years. On numerous occasions he has represented me and my company, B & B Oil Company, Inc., in court. Russell is articulate, glib and has a distinct flair for litigation, efficiently blended with an insight common only to UGA alumni. (This last for fee reduction)

Russell exhibits a court presence that in my limited experience always left me dazzled and deeply impressed. On several occasions I devoted my attention to others in the court room; judges, jury members and opposing attorneys to try to obtain a sense of how they measured his performance. I was not surprised that they appeared to be mesmerized by what they saw and heard. All this dovetails with his early days in the legal profession when as a student attorney he won the prestigious award in the 1987 Mock Trial Competition of the University of Georgia, a mock trial which pitted student against student in a competition to determine the student who best exemplifies the quality student attorney at the University of Georgia Law School.

I am proud to call Russell my good friend, legal guru and counselor.
